PEACE

"All we are saying, is give peace a chance..."
-- John Lennon

Peace is more than the absence of war. It is living in a state of balance and harmony, where the rules are fair and just for all. Peace is about how we handle problems and how we get along with others. Peace is about community--about encouraging and helping each other to live better, more fulfilling lives. Most of all, peace is about respect -- respect for ourselves, each other, and the planet we share.

Peace is an ongoing process that requires our constant attention, but we begin to make our lives more peaceful the moment we decide to try to be peacemakers. When we convince the world to make working for a more peaceful, just and sustainable world our priority, we will create a culture of peace.

The International Day of Peace (Peace Day) is a celebration of our shared wish for a better world. It is an opportunity to look at what's been done over the year to help create a more peaceful world, and to note the things that still need to be done. It's a time to rededicate our commitment to a more peaceful planet.

The United Nations has called for Peace Day to be a day of Global Ceasefire. If we can live in peace for one day, we can learn to work together to create a peaceful world, one day at a time.

What can you do to help create humanity's first day of peace?

Be A Hero For A Better World!

1. Do something for peace each day
2. Plan an event to raise awareness for peace
3. Contribute to organizations working for a culture of peace

"It may seem sometimes as if a culture of peace does not stand a chance against the culture of war, the culture of violence and the cultures of impunity and intolerance. Peace may indeed be a complex challenge, dependent on action in many fields and even a bit of luck from time to time. It may be a painfully slow process, and fragile and imperfect when it is achieved. But peace is in our hands. We can do it."

"In the hearts of people today there is a deep longing for peace. When the true spirit of peace is thoroughly dominant, it becomes an inner experience with unlimited possibilities. Only when this really happens-- when the spirit of peace awakens and takes possession of men's hearts, can humanity be saved from perishing."
